
eCornell Information Guide

You are eligible to enroll in eCornell courses because World Vision is a member of LINGOs—Learning for International NGOs—which exists to provide access to quality e-learning to staff of international NGOs. LINGOs has secured a special arrangement with eCornell to allow access to award-winning courses and certificates at deeply discounted rates--thanks to eCornell for their generous donation! All eCornell course content comes from top-rated programs with proven curricula and are developed by Cornell University faculty, frequently including practical insights from other industry experts.

In addition to being a World Vision employee, you must also:

- Speak English well enough to read and write long assignments—or find local help.
- Agree to complete the course within the designated time frame.

Because seats are limited, failing to complete a course will result in loss of permission to take future courses.

Format of the class

All eCornell courses are self-paced and 100% online, but also facilitated by subject matter experts who guide and challenge the learner to apply the course concepts to real-world, on-the-job circumstances. Courses are designed to accommodate the schedules of busy professionals and are available around the clock and completely asynchronous. eCornell offers its courses in pre-determined two-week time frames. Students do not have to be on the computer at a specific time of day but must complete the work within the course period. This means that the learner completes assignments with the class, participates in mandatory discussion boards, interacts with the instructor, and may attend office hours with the instructor.

What to expect

Plan on a LOT of reading and homework. An average class can take anywhere from 10-20 hours over the two-week course period. It is not unusual for an instructor to return homework to a student and ask for revisions on the assignment to successfully complete the course. Students are required to participate in the group discussions (through a discussion board) and must have a reliable internet connection, strong fluency in English, and the time available to complete the required work within the two-week course session. Please visit eCornell's Technical Requirements page to ensure the best experience.
